DEDICATING

Individual contribution in a hectic educational scene . . . collective efforts, producing . . . reactions of satisfaction and fulfillment . . . creating forces of vitality, enthusiasm and spirit . . . all points to DEDICATION.

Student views occupation filmstrip in Career Guidance Center.

Mrs. Dorothy Rosier, poses in early days as PE teacher at Huntington Beach High School.

Mrs. Harris checks out one of many college catalogues available in the Guidance Center.

Examples of Dedication

The challenge of school service

Service, sometimes beyond the call of duty, usually marks the usual person from the dedicated individual. There are many examples of such devotion both by teachers and administrators; here's some special examples of one counselor, a guidance technician, a custodian, and some students.

Westminster High School's Career Guidance Center has served the purpose of guiding students into the career of their choice; or in some cases, has helped them to make that choice. The Guidance Center can be used anytime with the able assistance of Mrs. Ethel Harris, guidance technician.

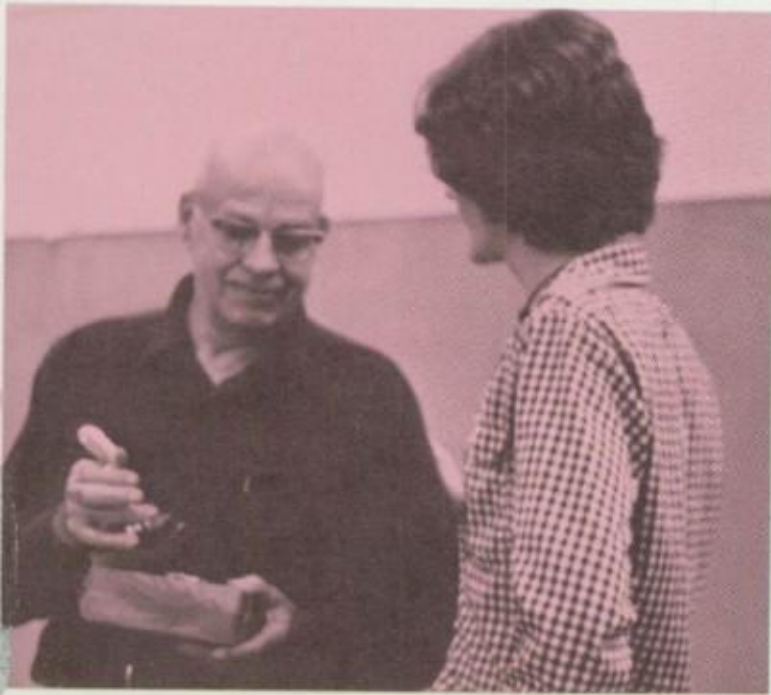

Another outstanding leader of our school, and a counselor, is Miss Dorothy Rosier. She has been in the Huntington Beach Union High School District for 28 years. Once a P.E. teacher, she is now a counselor and in charge of scholarships at Westminster High School.

With her wisdom she can lead students to make the right choice.

The Public Information Office is the center of all information coming out of this school. A select few students in the Public Relations class put out news bulletins, Staff News, the Westminster Times, conduct campus tours, prepare display materials, and do other related jobs.

Jack Curtis, a member of the custodial staff, is being honored because of his retirement this year. He was presented a gift by the maintenance crew and a special plaque by the Thespian Group and advisor Rosemary Stevens for his outstanding service and work.

These people have all brought, in their own special way, a little bit of themselves into Westminster High School. They have dedicated not only themselves but their hearts to the students. This is what living is all about.

Jack Curtis receives Thespian Award from Thespian President.

Public Information students sort class pictures from packets.

Miss Dorothy Rosier, former PE teacher and Counselor at Westminster High.

Students Get Enjoyment Out of Dirt and Tables.

Learning doesn't have to be all academic. Students in Nature Studies and Horticulture classes have worked hard all year to achieve a Nature Center and School Farm. Westminster has also recognized the saying, 'You can't have all work and no play', so the People Center was created.

Each of the classes was given a plot of ground to work with. Members of the School Farm group, under the guidance of Charles Ramos, have already developed part of their land by cultivating it. The Nature Center, with the help of Nate Matza, has only just begun this year.

The School Farm has the facilities to plant and grow vegetables. Some students have a piece of land to do their own thing. They can also keep animals like sheep, cows, and chickens.

The Nature Center will be a refuge for wild animals so that students can see them in their natural habitat. It contains a marsh, lake, and stream running through it.

Students in these classes have achieved success both on the school farm and Nature Center by giving up a lot of their time and through hard work to make it successful.

The People Center has come upon a few changes this year over last year. It is now located in the cafeteria. It contains ping pong tables, bumper pool and regular pool tables for student recreation. The facility is open to all students. All of these various projects make Westminster High the school it is.

Sandy Neitz tries for a four ball into the side pocket, at Lion's People Center.

Yea!!!

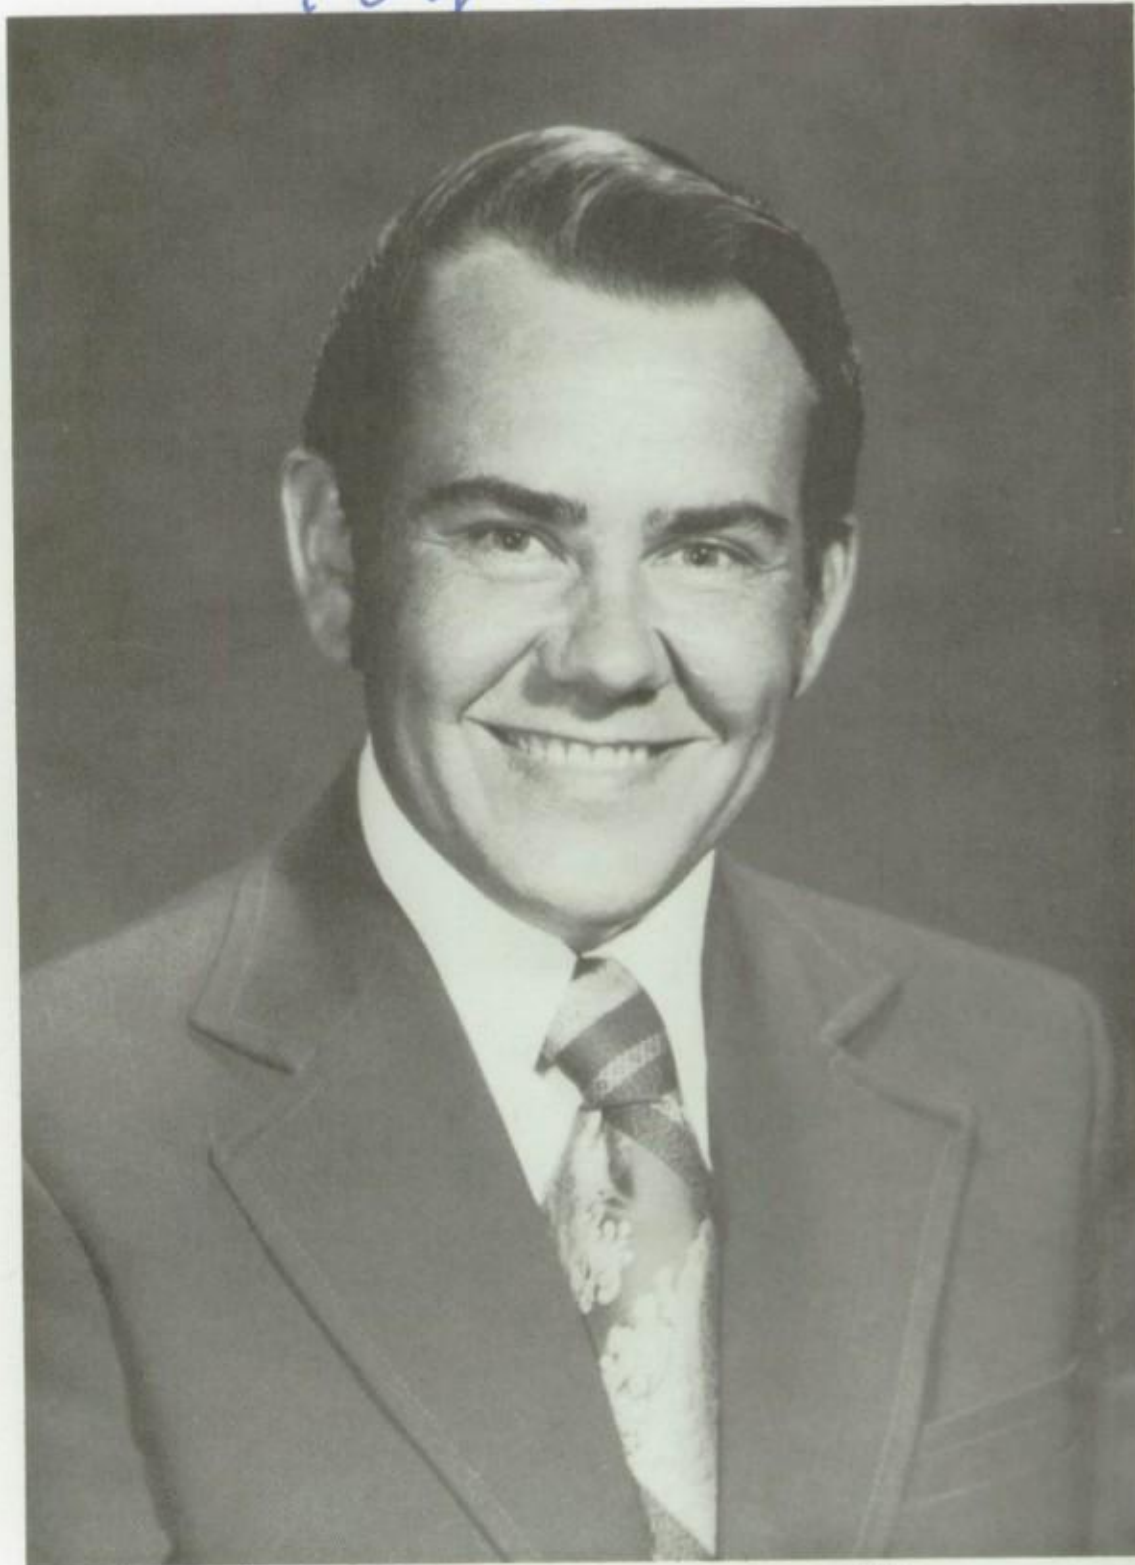

Thomas Kolanoski is the new Principal of Westminster High School. His job involves taking the responsibility of the second largest school west of the Mississippi with over 4,000 students along with a vast teaching and classified staff of 200 personnel.

Mr. Kolanoski has been in this school district for nine years. He started as a counselor at Huntington Beach High School and advanced to Assistant Principal. He has worked at Fountain Valley, Marina, and Westminster as an assistant principal.

"Being new to the job of principal makes me ambitious to do everything at once," he states. Being new also makes Mr. Kolanoski busy. An efficient-looking man, he appears to be doing twenty things at once. Yet, when one speaks to him, he gives one his full attention and interest.

As principal of this school, Mr. Kolanoski, as do many principals of secondary schools, has a goal. Unlike most principals, however, his goals tend to be more realistic than idealistic. Specifically he would like to deal with the spirit on campus. He would like to create a "fun experience" for students simultaneous with an educational experience that will either put them (the students) into the educational program of their choice or to help them to be self-sufficient.

By helping students to enjoy schooling and by preparing them for a place in society Mr. Kolanoski would like to think of them as ready to handle anything that may come along in their lives. He would like to be able to "prepare them to cope with a 'Future Shock' society."

GAA is expanding enormously each year. GAA gives each girl involved, (and it involves many) the chance to excel in her particular sport. New friends are made, new things are tried; everything adding to the whole experience of high school. GAA may be the opening to a career or a medal. At any rate, all girls involved will always remember the devoted training they received from these coaches, and the girls will know that GAA is a worthwhile organization.

Communications

There is, probably unbeknown to many WHS students, a communications organization on this campus. Many students are involved in Graphic Arts work under the direction of Mr. Richard DeRusha printing such things as concert programs, posters, tickets, etc. The Commercial Art class provides production work for printing jobs.

The Radio-TV production classes under the supervision of Mr. Cliff Crane provide teachers with tapings of TV programs and they also produce their own original TV programs.

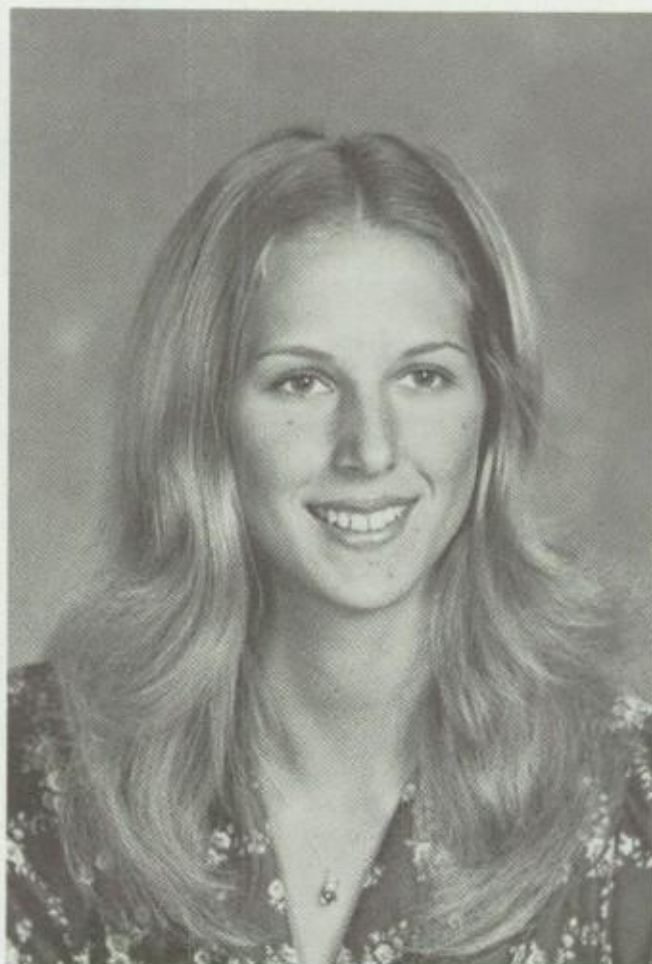

The fourth organization in the group includes the Public Information office. These students prepare press releases and work on such PR projects as Back to School Night, Open House and they also conduct tours for visitors to our campus.

His Royal Highness, Mr. Ken McCluskey, Advisor.

In this world of ours
we try to DISCOVER all that we can. In so doing we meet many
people who touch our lives. People that are DEDICATED to helping us fulfill our goals;
people who give us
guidelines, so that we might FOLLOW their direction.

In this world of experiences
of people, many of us
SOCIALIZE and some of us COMPETE but all of us are GROWING to become better equipped to meet the world of chaos and confusion.

In this helter-skelter world
called school we also meet a few
who SHARE their beauty, talents,
knowledge, and experiences which add
to our own personal experiences. All in all in this small world of ours called Westminster
High School, ALL of us are able to REACT everyday in everyday.

Our life here is like being
in a gumball machine . . . slowly . . .
patiently . . . we grow . . . and by growing we reach the pinnacle of

DISCOVER

Samie,

I really don't have enough time
to write everything I want to say
to you but I'll say,

I love you and, you
a sweet and considerate person,
you have done a lot for me and I know that I could never fully pay you back. You always there when I need you
and sometimes when I don't.
But you don't to be around and especially more than to stay
around with, by that I mean
you a great sex partner,
give me a lot of fun and
you at least you need to use
it more (Ha! Ha!). I've known you a long time and hope to know you a lot longer. We'll have fun in the summer (we always do anyway). Be up late
